LOCAL TEEN'S BIG GIG BENEFITS AUTISM

BRYN MAWR, PA – January 8, 2005 – Up and coming teenage musician Shane Peltzman, of Lower Moreland, PA is headlining a concert appearance on Saturday January 8th at The Point in Bryn Mawr, PA. He will be performing to a full house and all of the profits are being donated to Cure Autism Now.

Shane's recently released demo disc has received tremendous local response as well as critical acclaim. Shane finds that sweet spot between folk rock and pop where neither genre takes a back seat. The blending is perfect and the music and lyrics stay with you long after the disc has popped out of the player. Shane tackles a variety of subjects with startling clarity, particularly amazing considering his teenager status.

Shane is no stranger to the spotlight, having established himself in the television/film industry with a long resume of national commercials including: MTV; National Football League; Sears denim; V-8; and Nickelodeon to name a few. Shane was also a cast member of the NBC series Endurance.

Shane's inaugural Cure Autism Now benefit concert last November was extremely successful and this year's show is shaping up to be even bigger.
